

Dr. Yair Korenblit is the Chief Executive Officer of Maygia, where he leads the development of innovative water treatment technologies. His work focuses on using hydrogen to treat water while simultaneously generating electricity, aiming to make water purification both cost-effective and environmentally friendly.

Dr. Korenblit has a diverse background in research and development, having worked in seven different countries on projects ranging from energy storage to aerospace technologies. He has led multi-million dollar initiatives and founded multiple startups, with participation in programs such as Techstars, MassChallenge, and Entrepreneur First