

Tal Har Even Levy, Energy Sector Manager, municipality of Holon

With over a decade of experience in environmental sustainability and urban planning, Tal Har Even Levy is currently the Energy Sector Manager for the municipality of Holon, where they lead renewable energy policy development as part of the city action plan to reduce its impact on climate change. Previously, Tal worked as an Urban Planner and guide of environmental studies at private companies, providing guidance on urban environmental planning

Tal holds a master's degree in urban and Regional Planning from Ben-Gurion University, specializing in sustainability and greenhouse gas reduction programs and has published an article in the journal Habitat International. She has extensive experience in environmental consulting, project management, and academic writing. She and leads innovative initiatives in the fields of energy and environment.